It provides, however, that the secretary of the treasury may, in his discretion, continue under the existing law the coinage of quarters and dimes which shall, however, contain respectively one-fourth and one-tenth the amount of standard silver now contained in the standard dollar, and all of said quarters and dimes shall be legal tender to any amount for public and private debts. It provides also for the issue by the secretary of the treasury of silver certificates based upon half dollars, quarters and dimes thus provided for, in the same manner as required by law in the case of the silver dollar.

THE MONITOR MONADNOCK

WASHINGTON, April 2.—[Special.]—Senator Hale from the committee on naval affairs to-day reported to the senate the naval appropriation bill, in which the amount appropriated by the forty-seventh congress for completion of the monitor Monadnock, now lying at the Mare island navy yard at Vallejo, is appropriated and made available for the purposes originally intended during the current fiscal year. This sum, amounting to $183,000, was to have been used by Secretary Chandler in completing the monitor during the summer, but as the house committee on appropriations diverted the sum back into the treasury on the ground that it was useless to complete the Monadnock, the secretary has not advertised for bids to build the ship's engines, which he intended to have constructed at San Francisco. If the senate committee succeeds in retaining this item in the bill through a conference fight is sure to ensue over the bill, the Monadnock will be completed during the coming summer and stationed in San Francisco bay as a defense for the Pacific coast.

AN APPEAL FROM NEW ZEALAND

WASHINGTON, April 2.—In the senate yesterday Morgan presented a memorial from William Webster, an American citizen, praying for aid by congress to secure him in his right to the ownership of 300,000 acres of land in New Zealand, which he claims he bought from native chiefs before the British government had any rights or possession in that country.

THE STAR ROUTE INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, April 1.—George Bliss continued his testimony relative to the star route trials before the Springer committee. He said Cook kept in his possession for a number of weeks abstracts of sixteen routes prepared by Woodward. In my opinion, Bliss said, "these abstracts were retained for the other side to copy."

SENATOR MAHONE ILL

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senator Mahone is lying seriously ill at the Arlington hotel in this city.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senator Mahone's condition is not improved. His friends are very anxious.

THE CHINESE BILL.

What the Friends of Additional Legislation are Doing—The House Bill's Chances

WASHINGTON, April 2.—[Special.]—A definite programme has at last been agreed upon regarding the Chinese bill. On the third Monday in April, when motions from committees to suspend the rules are in order, the committee on foreign affairs will ask the house to suspend the rules and pass the bill reported favorably from the committee. A two-third vote is required to suspend the rules, and only half an hour is allowed for debate, but within this time it is believed the necessity for supplemental legislation can be clearly shown, and if greater time is desired for discussion the friends of the measure will gladly yield it. It is expected that nine-tenths of the democrats and at least one-third of the republicans will vote for the bill, thus giving it a two-thirds majority. If, however, it should be defeated, it still retains its position on the calendar and will be taken up when reached in the ordinary course of business. The vote on the motion to suspend the rules will at all events show just how the two parties are divided on the question, and who are to blame for the defeat, if it is beaten.

The danger to the bill in the house rests in the fact that it may not be reached in the ordinary channels this session, with the tariff bill, appropriation bills and land grant forfeiture bills having precedence of it.

THE HOUSE BILL PREFERRED

Senators Miller and Farley and members of the California delegation in the house are anxious that the house bill be passed for two reasons. First, the senate bill is unsatisfactory, and the prospect for amending it to meet all requirements is uncertain. If it were certain that the house bill could not pass the senate, bill would be pushed vigorously as giving some measure of relief, but it is desired to get the house bill before the senate if possible as a basis of legislation. Second, if the senate bill should be passed it would go to the foot of a pile of over 600 senate bills now lying on the speaker's table awaiting action. There is not the highest prospect that it would be reached for conference this session, and it might not at the next, while the senate would not concur in the house bill until the house refused to adopt its measure.

It is needless to disguise the fact that there is apathy in both parties on the subject of both bills, and the impression obtains ground among quite a number of members of both parties that the present law is adequate to the purpose for which it was framed.

THE DANVILLE INVESTIGATION

Testimony of White and Colored Residents—The Negroes Quarrelsome

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The first witness examined by the Danville committee was William Ruffin, before whose office the riot took place. Ruffin wrote the Danville circular entitled "Coalition rule in Danville," and announced that he has since approved it, and with the exception of a single minor point inserted by another man, upon revision, believed its statements true. Ruffin was not in Danville the day of the riot. He was examined regarding the condition of things incidental, and he substantiated his statements with a narration of matters within his personal knowledge. On one occasion when some negro murderers had been arrested he was passing a party of colored men on the street and one of them was addressing his fellows in very intemperate language, abusing the whites in the vilest manner. He wished he could have a "chance to shoot some d—d white men," he never had had a chance to kill a white man and nothing on the face of the earth would do him so much good as to kill a white man; he did not care who it was. The man at this took a pistol out of his pocket and just toyed with it. Aside from the riot and attendant circumstances the relations between the two races were of the most cordial nature—as much so as was possible between servant and employer anywhere.

OTHER WITNESSES

Irwin Hill (colored) testified that he attended a meeting where a colored speaker had recommended that colored democrats "be sassinated" (assassinated) whereupon witness thought matters were taking a personal turn and left. Witness afterward met a man who claimed to have credited him, and the man pulled off his hat on his coat an' his waist coat an' throwed dem down an' jest double his han' an' rub it up an' down mo' nose an' sai' I am las an' I will drink yo' blood or yo' liver an' I ... present it, an' I took it for granted dat he had feelings toward me for voting de ticket.

L. D. Clark (white), a farmer living six miles from Danville, testified that it was the usual thing for negroes to go armed and a very rare thing for white men to do so.

J. I. Pleasants (white) had heard negroes say they wanted to kill a d—d poor white people. The negroes were very impudent and generally armed.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR

A BRUTAL ASSAULT

CHICAGO, April 2.—A policeman hearing cries for help at No. 1712 Wabash avenue ran into the house and burst open the door on the second floor. Two children lay crying in a bed, and a naked woman on the floor was being kicked by two brothers named Peterson, while their sisters urged them on. The woman so brutally assaulted was a dressmaker named Penfield, whose only offense was being $6 behind in her rent. The Peterson family were taken to the station by the patrol wagon and held for riotous assault and disorderly conduct. Mrs. Penfield will bring suit for $10,000 damages.

NEGRO MURDERER LYNCHED

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 2.—Monday night a masked mob surrounded the jail at Dallas, Gaston county, overpowered the jailor and took out Edwin McCulloch, colored, carried him to a tree, half a mile distant, and hanged him. A week ago McCulloch shot and killed Thomas Wilson, a prominent young man of Gaston. The murder was cold-blooded.

NEGRO LYNCHED

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 2.—Frank Elliott, colored, who committed a gross assault on a young woman in York county this morning, was brought to Rock Hill. This evening when leaving the justice's court for the York jail, the people overpowered the sheriff's posse and took Elliott on a run just outside the corporation limits and hanged him.

A JEALOUS HUSBAND'S DEED

TORONTO, April 2.—Horace F. Alkins, aged 31, ... shot his wife, and Hackett, a street car conductor, whom he accuses of being too intimate, and whom he caught entering the house of a friend to-day. Both were taken to the hospital, where Hackett's injuries were pronounced fatal. Alkins was arrested.

A COLD BLOODED MURDER

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., April 2.—At Fairview yesterday John W. Gibson, a young rough, walked into a grocery and fired two pistol balls into the heart of John McCoy, killing him instantly. No reason is known. Gibson escaped, but a party of citizens are in pursuit and will lynch him if he is caught.

SUICIDE OF A POLITICIAN

CHATTANOOGA, April 2.—A special to the Times from Scottsboro, Alabama, says W. F. Robinson, candidate for congress, stabbed himself through the heart this morning. Cause unknown.

A DISHONEST CLERK

NEW YORK, April 2.—Mr. Homer, jeweler in the Astor house, has been robbed of $1,000 worth of diamonds by Joseph Rosenbaum, a clerk.

TRIAL OF GUITEAU'S ASSAILANT

FRANK JAMES' CASE

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., April 2.—Dick Liddell arrived to-day to testify against Frank James. The defense will be an alibi.

ACCIDENTS

THE EAST.

The Country Swept by Death-Dealing Storms and Cyclones.

APPALLING LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY

Latest Particulars from the Scene of the Recent Riot—Political News and Gossip—Railroad News—Etc.

CINCINNATI, April 2.—Reports from eastern Indiana and western Ohio say the storm last night was very severe that the wind blew a hurricane, prostrating fences and telegraph lines and communication is badly interrupted. No lives are reported lost. Near Greenville the storm was very severe, houses, barns and trees being blown down.

AT REYNOLDSBURG

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 2.—A destructive wind storm passed over Reynoldsburg, twelve miles east, last night. Several houses, barns and bridges were blown down and many buildings were unroofed. Five miles of telegraph poles were torn down. No person is known to be seriously injured, though some stock was killed. The cyclone did not touch Columbus.

CYCLONE IN INDIANA

MUNCIE, Ind., April 2.—A destructive cyclone struck this county Saturday afternoon, completely wiping out Oakville, seven miles south of here, and doing inestimable damage to property. About 5 o'clock a heavy black cloud came from the north. Two clouds met at the house of Louis Cochran, two miles from Oakville, and lifted it bodily, tearing it into kindling wood. A minute later it struck Oakville, carrying death and destruction in its track. Of thirty houses in Oakville all but three were torn to atoms. Five persons were killed outright and the sixth died this morning. A large number were injured. Fifty are reported wounded. The large warehouse and sawmill adjoining town are in ruins and the scene of chaos and destruction is impossible to describe. Anna Dearborn, an old lady, Colonel Johnson and J. James Sanders were killed and two other persons whose names are not ascertained. Christian Swan lost everything, and had his house blown from over his head, but he escaped uninjured.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED

The following were killed: Mrs. Anna Dearmont, widow, aged 30; Susan Hills, aged 17, when discovered she was almost in a nude condition, her clothing having been literally blown from her person. A babe of C. D. Johnson was found in a field 100 yards from where the house stood, with its head crushed, and a baby of Charles Brown was injured. Further Johnson, a 12 year old son of C. C. Johnson, was blown twenty yards and had his skull crushed; he will probably die. Nancy Myers, 10 years old, had an arm broken. Jimmie Myers, aged 1, had an arm broken. John Huffman and wife were both badly bruised in the head and otherwise injured. Jeff Porter, engineer at the sawmill, had a leg broken in two places and was injured internally; he will probably die. Jeff Miller had a hip dislocated. Mrs. Jeff Miller was badly bruised. Fred Cole, ... of Shelbyville, had three ribs broken. The Widow Homer has a bad cut on her shoulder. Fifteen others were more or less injured.

Among the houses smashed was that of John Sullivan, in which were himself, wife and four children, the youngest a babe two weeks old. It is most miraculous that none of the family was injured in the least. The baby was found in bed covered with debris, but unhurt.

FIVE PERSONS KILLED

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 2.—A destructive cyclone passed through Henry and Blackford counties, five miles south of Muncie, passing in a northeasterly direction last night, causing great loss of life and property. Three women and two men were killed at Oakville. Two of the women were picked up by the wind and carried fully half a mile and deposited in the woods. It is believed the loss of life in the country remote from telegraph lines has been considerable.

AT PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, April 2.—A terrific wind storm, accompanied by thunder, lightning and hail, passed over the city at 10 o'clock this morning, doing considerable damage to property and injuring a number of persons. Silver & Roberts' new wire mill, a large sheet iron structure on Ninth street, in the South side, was blown down and two workmen, Wm. Lacy and James Donahue, were injured. Lacy will probably die. A frame house on Twenty-eighth street was also demolished. A carpenter named Robinson, erecting a scaffold upon which George Jones will be executed tomorrow, was struck by a beam and quite seriously injured. A number of other persons were injured by falling chimneys and signs. A special from Petrolia reports great damage from the storm.

IN THE MONONGAHELA VALLEY

PITTSBURG, April 2.—By a cyclone which passed over the Monongahela valley this morning property was damaged several thousand dollars, and twenty-one persons injured, four probably fatally. The sun was shining brightly at half past nine. Ten minutes later the sky became overcast and hail commenced falling. There were vivid flashes of lightning and loud peals of thunder. A terrific gale of wind which leveled fences, wrenched signs from their fastenings and demolished houses. On Twenty-eighth street a frame house was completely demolished and on Wylie the roof of a house was blown off and a brick partition overthrown, burying Mrs. Roberts, Fanny Skau, a baby and injuring them so severely that it is doubtful if they will recover. Oliver and Roberts' wire mill was completely wrecked. The building was 100 feet square and constructed almost entirely of iron. It had not yet been placed under roof. About 100 men were engaged inside putting in an engine. When the storm rent the building in twain the heavy iron fell with a crash and the men scattered pell mell, seeking places of safety. All but six escaped, and only one of these, Will Lacy, was fatally hurt. He will hardly recover.

The storm continued its course along the south side of the river, sweeping small outhouses and fences from its path until Homestead, Pa., was reached, where it seemed to gather new force. A frame house owned by Evan Jones was blown down, and six men working in the building were more or less injured. A carpenter shop adjoining was crushed by falling timbers and two men were hurt. In another part of town the frame house of John Randolph was lifted from its foundation and carried some distance. The family were uninjured. The dwelling of Mrs. Lecries was struck by the gale and badly damaged.

The storm passed up the valley, but so far no other damage is reported.

IN TENNESSEE

CHATTANOOGA, April 2.—A cyclone one hundred yards wide passed totally miles below this city last night in a northeasterly direction. Two members of Colonel Tatum's family were killed and five other deaths are reported. Several trees were blown across the track of the Alabama and Great Southern railroad. The night express train was thrown from the track by an obstruction and fireman Ed Brown killed and engineer Mike Frawley injured.

IN ALABAMA

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., April 2.—A destructive cyclone passed through this county last night, greatly damaging timber and fencing. The house of a family named White was completely blown away and Mrs. White and mother were killed. A baby was carried several rods into the woods, where it was found alive this morning. A man named Glover had both shoulders broken, and others are more or less injured.

Trout Show at Fulton Market

NEW YORK, April 2.—[Special.]—Fish Commissioner Blackford held his annual trout opening at Fulton market to-day. Almost every variety of fish were represented, including salmon, silver brook, lake, river and rainbow trout, which arrived last night from the Pacific coast. These were the chief attraction of the exhibition, attracting larger crowds than the trout from other waters. There were six big California trout from the Sacramento river, weighing from two and one half to eight pounds. In a large tank filled with water were sixty specimens of rainbow trout beautifully marked. Perhaps the most noteworthy exhibit was a jar full of eggs of California brook trout in the process of hatching, the eggs being noticeably larger than those of other varieties. There was also a wild trout from McLeod river, California, and trout one, two, three and four years old, Columbia river salmon eggs, hatching California mountain trout with fiery red bands around their sides, German trout, with scarlet dorsal fins and big chinook salmon from Oregon were features of the display. M. W. Green of Shasta county sent large male and female specimens taken from natural streams on the Pacific coast.

The Stock Market

NEW YORK, April 2.—Governments firm. Railroads lower. State securities steady. The stock market opened slightly lower, but soon became strong and advanced ¼ to ⅜. Western Union scored the greatest improvement. Compared with last night closing prices are down ⅜ to 1¼ per cent except for Western Union and St. Paul preferred, which were ¼ to ⅜ higher. Transcontinental aggregated 120,000 shares.

The High Water at Bismarck

BISMARCK, Dak., April 2.—The river is falling steadily. The Northern Pacific tracks on the west side are uncovered, and are being repaired. The gorge still clings to the east shore, but the channel is almost clear. Buford reports long fields of heavy ice and some fear is felt there. But for that the outlook is more hopeful.

A Politician Commits Suicide

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., April 2.—Captain William Robinson, democratic candidate for Congress in 1880 against General Joe Wheeler, committed suicide at Scottsboro, Alabama, last night, by sticking a penknife in his heart. He had just returned from an electioneering tour and it is supposed the excitement affected his mind.

THE CINCINNATI RIOT.

The Militia Going Home—Another Death—The "Herald's" Opinion—Etc.

CINCINNATI, April 2.—The relief experienced to-night by the removal of the anxiety which has rested so heavily since Friday night can hardly be described. A heavy rain, accompanied by thunder, last night served to keep everybody off the streets. The militia on duty at the barricades were completely drenched. It turned cold after the rain and the soldiers suffered somewhat.

SYCAMORE STREET BARRICADES

While Main street and Ninth and South Court streets are open to public travel, the barricades around the jail and on Sycamore street are still in position. These cause comparatively little interruption to business and they make it impossible for the crowd to press closely to the jail.

At the burial yesterday of ... Mankin, the ... killed Saturday night, his father fainted at the grave and was carried home in an unconscious condition and died before this morning.

CINCINNATI, April 2.—One of the most encouraging outward signs of the supremacy of order to-day was the removal of the barricades in the streets about the court house. At ... the first street ... Main and Auburn ... were permitted to pass through after being shut off since Saturday. The entire military force will be withdrawn to-day except the Seventeenth regiment, which remains until further orders. The latest revised list of the dead and wounded makes the total ... wounded 138.

LEGISLATION RECOMMENDED

COLUMBUS, April 2.—Governor Hoadly in a message to the general assembly to-day recommended a provision by law for the official arrest and conviction of the murderer of Captain Desmond killed in the Cincinnati riot while in the service of the state. He also recommends the propriety of making a provision to release his aged mother from pecuniary loss entailed by the death of her son, her sole support. A bill passed the senate to allow militiamen injured or prostrated by sickness while in service at Cincinnati 120 days' time at $... per day. A bill was introduced in the senate looking to making good the losses sustained by citizens of Cincinnati.

THE RED FLAG

CINCINNATI, April 2.—To-night the barricades are all gone and the militia simply patrol the sidewalks of the jail and the court house. In many accounts of Saturday night's mob reference had been made to a red flag borne. It was carried by a communist organization. It has been ascertained that there is nothing significance ... that it was a flag taken to the sheriff's office and used by him about the ... It has been determined to build temporary quarters for the criminal court in the yard, to be ready in two weeks. The grand jury will assemble at once and provision has been made for the accommodation of all the courts, and legal business will proceed as usual.

ANOTHER DEATH

CINCINNATI, April 2.—The militia are all gone home here except the Seventeenth and Fifth regiments. A small portion of the first regiment is on duty. The Fifth regiment will go away in the morning. The Seventeenth will remain till further orders. One of the wounded in the riot, taken to the hospital, an unconscious, name unknown, has since died. Just before his death he rallied sufficiently to give the name of William White. This makes forty-one deaths. Of thirty-eight burial permits for victims in the late riot, eleven of the killed were born in Germany, eighteen in America, mostly of German parents, one in Ireland and one in Wales. It is said the executive committee has obtained half of the $100,000 they proposed to raise to equip a special police force.

THE "HERALD" ON THE RIOT

NEW YORK, April 2.—[Special.]—The Herald has a strong editorial on the Cincinnati riots. The writer says: "We have a society here that meets every Sunday night to hear speeches in favor of universal murder with dynamite. We have an army of men who tried to burn the city of Paris. We have Most and Schwab and an army of their adherents. We have perhaps 100,000 men who would contemplate the burning of this city as a noble sacrifice on the altar of their principles. We have had experience of riots, but we have erred in leniency. It clearly ... lated to discourage our ... this organization ... we should amend our laws in that particular."

The number of tons transported is ... an increase of 21,175. The increase was mainly due to work done for the Interoceanic Canal Company. Passengers carried 90,339 against 127,0... in the year before. The war between Chili, Peru and Bolivia and the civil war in Ecuador hurt the company's business during the year. Coffee, rubber and ivory nuts show an increase and the exports of ores is assuming large proportions. The company's track is in poor condition. The working ... on the tracks has been ... ## THE WAR IN THE SOUDAN.

TO SURVEY THE UPPER NILE

LONDON, April 1.—Orders have been sent to General Stephenson and Sir Evelyn Baring at Cairo to report as to the advisability of sending an expedition via Suakim or Korosko to Berber to assist in the relief of Khartoum. Admiral Hay has been asked to expedite a survey of the upper Nile, to ascertain to what extent a gunboat flotilla will be able to operate on the river. Admiral Hewitt's mission to King John of Abyssinia has been hastened in order that arrangements may be made for operations of Abyssinian troops in southern Soudan.

The Daily News says the government considers it unnecessary to dispatch British troops to Khartoum.

A Times correspondent at Alexandria says he possesses positive proof that General Gordon expects that British troops be sent to Khartoum.

CRITICAL CONDITION

LONDON, April 2.—El Mahdi's position is critical. His troops and the inhabitants are excited against him and his fall is daily expected. There is a plot pending to murder El Mahdi and the members of his council.

Dispatches from Gordon dated March 10 state that El Obeid is in poverty, stricken and destitute of clothing. Few of El Mahdi's followers are there and there are no signs that El Mahdi is about to advance on Khartoum. The Kababish tribe is in open rebellion against El Mahdi.

WAR NOTES FROM LONDON

LONDON, April 2.—General Hewitt is timed to reach Massowah Tuesday.

King John offers the services of from 8000 to 10,000 Abyssinians, on condition that the English guarantee an allowance of two shillings daily to each man and the cession of two ports to Abyssinia. If England agrees to these terms the Abyssinians will attack El Mahdi and relieve Kassala.

TRIBES PRESSING FORWARD

LONDON, April 2.—Advices from Khartoum state that the tribes between Shendy and Khartoum are pressing forward and are within three miles of the latter place. Preparations have been made to resist them. Traitors found in the ranks of the Egyptian regiments will be instantly shot.

PACIFIC COAST.

"Ben. B. A." Beats "Vanderlyn" in the Trot at San Francisco.

FIELD NOT IN THE PRESIDENTIAL RACE

Anti-Railroad Legislation by the California Legislature—Weekly Market Review—News Notes from the North—Etc.

Good Times Ahead

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—[Special.]—The Post prints the following editorial this afternoon: The recuperative energy of the northwest section of the Pacific coast is being evidenced in a great variety of ways since the setback it received by the collapse of the Villard schemes. That misadventure has taught the people of Oregon and Washington territory a lesson they are not likely to forget soon. They were conservative to the last degree before being seduced into gambling speculation. They are likely to presently ... the conservative lines for some time to come under the chastening rod of that experience. From Portland, Oregon, we learn that money, which was very tight two months ago, is abundant ... for all legitimate business uses. It is ... said to be had readily for speculative purposes, however, and ... is ... Immigration has set in early this season, and there are quite a number of immigrants ... a ... of suitable ... agricultural purposes attracted ... by the ... system of advertising ... by the Northern Pacific syndicate under Henry Villard's guidance. The crop outlook is also very promising and a great deal of money will be needed to move the harvest. This doubtless will be forthcoming when required. Meanwhile business is reviving, and if there be lacking the push and bustle of the past year or two the profits on the season's transactions will not be less satisfactory than when there was a greater crop. One thing, however, is to be noted with regret, and that is the tendency of Portland houses to do business with eastern trade centers instead of with San Francisco.

Ben B. A. Beats Vanderlyn

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—[Special.]—The second match for $500 a side between Ben B. A., nominated by W. Lusky, and Vanderlyn by Pat Farrell, was decided yesterday at Oakland park in favor of Ben B. A. ... owing in far better condition than when he trotted recently at the Bay District course, while Vanderlyn ... had ... a wagon, was more unsteady than usual under the guidance of O. A. Hickok. Vanderlyn led with one of his bad breaks at the first turn, and although he closed a gap of ten lengths ... taking advantage of his adversary he was off his feet twice in the home stretch and Ben B. A. won easily in 2:35. The second heat was prettily contested all the way through, and at a distance it was anybody's race, but Vanderlyn then became unsteady and B. B. trotting quietly took the heat in 2:33¾, which was good time considering the heavy condition of the track. In the deciding heat Vanderlyn took the lead but resigned it at the second turn with a slight break. Then trotting fast he overtook Ben B. A. on the home stretch and ... ... out in 2:34 by about a third of a length. In the final heat the great bay became quite unmanageable and break succeeded break in rapid succession. Ben B. A. won the race in a very hardy manner in 2:36½.

Judge Field not a Candidate

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Judge Field of the United States supreme court writes from Washington to the Hon. James A. Johnson, of the Alta, saying he is not a candidate for any political position. He says: "I have looked over the whole matter and ... ago I came to the conclusion that it will serve no useful purpose to bring me out as a candidate for the presidential nomination. As I am not insensible to the honor of having a favorable delegation from California, I should feel proud of the support of the state, but there is no use in disguising the fact that owing to prejudices in certain quarters it will be difficult to obtain it. I shall certainly not do any ... to secure any one's support."

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—[Special.]—The movement in wheat shipping during the week can not be said to have been active, buyers only supplying a total want. California cargoes have declined to all round, and Liverpool shipping ... 1d per bushel. The unfavorable reports from foreign and eastern markets have had an effect upon the local situation. Holders are asking $1 65 per cental, but ... ... ... to pay that figure, unless for ... ... Advices from the interior speak ... of the growing crop and the present prospect ... that a large ... will be gathered, but nothing definite can be arrived at until after the rains ... is over. The rainfall has been abundant to refresh ... ... the plant, which gives the seed confidence in a large yield the coming harvest.

Twenty-eight grain vessels cleared for foreign ports during March, twenty-five for Great Britain and Ireland, two for Antwerp and one for Havre, with 1,354,413 centals of wheat valued at $2,201,792.

From July 1, 1883, to March 31, 1884, the total exports of wheat have been 10,028,840 centals, valued at $17,261,301 against 11,331,219 centals valued at $ ... for the corresponding period in the previous fiscal year. Exports for the three months ending March 31, 1884, were ... 7,744 centals valued at $1,544,964 against 5,183,189 centals valued at $ ... during the same period in 1883, showing a decrease for the first quarter of 1884 of 721,447 centals, valued at $3,641 ...

Sales of grain at the call board association in March, 1884, were 1,140,... against 610,456 the same month of 1883, being a decrease of more than one half. Sales of No. 1 white at the call board association during the week have been comparatively light.

Only one charter has been effected since our last weekly review, and rates are nominal. The rate of the Hannah Landles, the vessel referred to above, to Cork U. K., was £1 10s. The amount of tons under engagement at this port to load wheat are 29,100, against 85,... at the corresponding date in 1883, showing an increase of ... 0480 tons.

Flour—There is no particular change to note in the situation. The market is steady at unchanged rates. There is a good jobbing trade in progress. The export demand is fair.

Barley—Receipts continue light. Since Saturday the market has shown a steadier tone and prices are firmer than they were a week ago. There is a good jobbing trade in progress and the outlook is that prices will advance. Considerable shipments have been made on eastern account from various points in the state which have helped to sustain values in the local market. Brewing has a weaker tone than a week ago, as most of the eastern orders on hand for this grade have been filled. Chevalier is in light offering and the quality is rather poor. The speculative movement on call during the week has been sluggish.

Hops—The entire stock on this coast is estimated at between 2000 and 3000 bales. At present asking prices are too high for purchasers on export account and the trade is almost lifeless.

Wool—The rainy weather has seriously interfered with shearing and no spring clips have come to hand, nor are there likely to be any until 2 to 10 weeks. The local market is very quiet, not for lack of buyers but on account of the scarcity of good grades. Quotations are nominal.

Potatoes—The market has been fairly supplied with fair to good qualities. Choice grades are getting scarce, which is common at this season. Seed varieties are in good supply and equal to the demand.

Onions—Choice quality is very scarce and high. Gilt-edged lots bring fancy prices. The greater part of the arrivals are of poor quality. We quote $1 25@1 75 per cental on the wharf for common, 5th and upward.

Domestic Fruits—During the week six car loads of oranges have come to hand, two each from San Gabriel, Los Angeles and Riverside. Riversides are lower. About 800 boxes of Mexican limes came to hand and prices are a shade easier.

Vegetables—Arrivals of asparagus are large and the market is weak. Rhubarb and green peas are in good supply and prices are lower. Other kinds are fairly steady.

Butter—Depots are overstocked and jobbers will make concessions in prices rather than lose a customer. The packing season has not commenced, to use up surplus stocks, and the shipping demand is very light. The outside quotations for good to choice is 20@22½ per pound. For Point Reyes 25c is the asking price.

FEATURES OF THE RESOLUTIONS.

The prominent features of the three Wallace resolutions introduced into and voted on in the assembly last night at Sacramento are:

THE BARRY BILL PASSED

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—Nothing has been done by the senate. The house passed the Barry bill, practically unchanged, forfeiting railway charters for discrimination or disobeying the commissioners. When charters are forfeited the property reverts to the state and the rolling stock will be sold. Charters from other states are unavailable in California.

The committee on corporations is framing a schedule of freights and fares in accordance with the views of Commissioner Foote.

NOTES FROM COEUR D'ALENE.

First Trip of the Steamer on Coeur d'Alene Lake—The Snow Covered Mining Camp

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

COEUR D'ALENE, April 1.

To-day I shall leave here on the first trip of the steamer Coeur d'Alene for the mines. After waiting so long for the ice to move out, Capt. Sanburn has now determined to break his way through, or at least, to try to. Yesterday he began sheathing her hull to protect it from the sharp edges, and shortly after noon we shall be on our way. There is little doubt of the boat's ability to go through. On Sunday she backed across the lake, breaking the ice with her wheel, and every afternoon it is soft and mushy so far as has been examined. The shores were lined with people as she banged her way across, and bets were made as to whether or not she would be able to make it. When we stopped for lunch in the bay on the opposite side from the wharf it was feared that something had happened, so great is the anxiety on every hand concerning the boat. She is the connecting link upon which all hopes hang, now that the trails have broken up. After her return from the trip across the lake speculators clapped on $50 or $100 to the price of town lots, and everybody was cheerful at once. There will be many bets lost and won by her trip to-day. As to how far above the mission she will land, my next letter will tell, and it will be time enough then for those who are coming to make preparations. It is a great mistake to be hurrying toward the camp, yet there are crowds now in waiting with plenty of freight. The stage men are not so sure of their facilities beyond the landing. As for myself I expect to go in a skiff from the point of the steamboat's landing to within four miles of Eagle and then walk the rest of the way. There are a number of men with skiffs and canoes taking up freight, some of them making the round trip from the Mission to Eagle in four days.

Parker's press and printing material went on through here yesterday and to-day one Mr. Andor ... expects to come with a press from Rathdrum, which will be taken on the boat.

There are all sorts of stories about trails as widely differing as are the interests of the men who tell them, so I will wait until I get into camp before undertaking to tell. There has been too much of this writing around the edges from statements made by men coming out and from guesswork.

There is one important circumstance of which I am reminded by the date of this letter, and that is the fact that on this very day—April 1—miners having taken up claims must be upon them and at work or lose their hold. Those claims that are not worked upon from to-day may be taken by anyone who comes along, as I understand the law, and, in fact, I know of men waiting in the railroad towns to see what may be developed from this enforced work. One Mr. Garrett, who came from the mines of San Juan, Colorado, is here now on his way to Rathdrum. He has been in the mines three or four weeks and says he will give the boys just two months to make a showing, and upon whether they do or not depends whether or not he will go back.

Yesterday ten men came in from Rathdrum. They had been at every entering point from Thompson's Falls on the east around to this place, and did not dare venture upon either. They tell stories of men coming out who had to wade streams and flooded flats breast high, carrying their blankets and grub as high over their heads as they could reach to keep them out of the water. Perhaps the very next man met would say that both the Thompson and the Belknap trails are good, though all admit that there is some wading in the water to be done, whichever trail may be taken. Why any man should wade cold streams up to his neck in order to get into a snow covered camp, where nothing is doing and living is high, is something to be explained by those who understand the infatuation of gold hunting better than I do.

There are plenty of discouraged fellows up in camp, I am told, and one of the daily sights there is that of an auctioneer selling off blankets, picks and shovels. What cost five dollars goes for fifty cents, and twelve dollar blankets go for two—the price depends upon the grit of the man and the hunger of the man. Most of them went in expecting to soon begin taking gold out of the ground, and when they have spent a few weeks drinking or gambling or even eating and sleeping, they have no recourse but to sell out and get out. Of course those who stick it out will be the ones to make the big hauls, if any are made. I am told that the straggling train of comers extends away to the Atlantic on the eastward and down as far as Arizona to the southward, so there will be a well balanced maintenance of travel in and out of hopeful and discouragement. The most discouraged fellow I have seen is one who on Friday sold his $30 Sharp's rifle for $6 to get feed for his horse, on Saturday sold the saddle to get a pair of boots for himself and on Monday sold the horse to get some grub. He has now nothing but himself to dispose of.

Latest arrivals from the mines say that there is no lack of provisions there. One old miner, an Oregonian by the name of J. R. Sanburn, who came in on Sunday, says he saw a butcher with five good quarters of beef on hand and he was somewhat discouraged at the prospect of selling. There are also sheep and hogs in camp, which were driven over the Thompson trail before the snow was hard. These campers stick to bacon, beans and coffee with a fidelity worthy of a more exalted diet. One man undertook to make some money by shooting deer and supplying the camp with venison, but pulled out of the business after trying in vain to get over 10 cents a pound for the second deer. So with trout. They are plenty down at the junction of the North and South forks, but there are none ... now and then a dainty gambler, who will indulge in such luxuries at a price to make it profitable to catch and pack it to camp. Good reliable, old cowbelly, at 50 cents a pound, is capable of more attenuation and is a more positive quantity.

THOMPSON'S FALLS, MONTANA.

Something About the Town—Glowing Reports from the Coeur d'Alene Mines.

THOMPSON'S FALLS, M. T., March 30.

This is a new town on the line of the Northern Pacific railroad 341 miles east of Portland. The cause of the town is, a new route has been made from this point to the Coeur d'Alene mines. Since the 26th ult. ninety-seven buildings have been erected, and thirty-odd more are in course of construction. Every line of business is represented. The Bank of Thompson's Falls, D. F. Fogarty president, and George N. Sumner cashier, begins business on the 1st of next month. The following companies have been incorporated recently and are now rushed with business: The Clark's Fork and Coeur d'Alene Toll Road and Ferry Company, of which G. G. Smith is president and manager, John Russell secretary and treasurer, Peter McGillicuddy, J. W. Lee, John L. Sharp and William Bradbury directors. Incorporators of the Thompson's Falls Land Company are William Costel, president; K. Maher, manager; M. Maher, treasurer, and Charles E. Gibbs, secretary. The Toll Road and Ferry Company have a sleigh road completed twenty-six miles toward the Coeur d'Alene mines, and a toboggan or pack trail the balance of the distance. Men are at work extending the road the whole distance. The company have one cable ferry running across the Clark's Fork from Thompson's Falls to South Thompson, and are constructing another one to be put on the river a short distance above the first.

Wells, Fargo & Co. started a daily pony express from here to Murrayville and Eagle yesterday. Jack Marshall, formerly with W. J. Hawkins & Co. on the Northern Pacific railroad construction, is agent at Eagle.

The route from here to the mines is up Prospect creek in a southwest direction. From here to the Mountain house twenty-two miles, the grade is hardly perceptible. From the Mountain house to Sullivan's, eight miles, a low divide is crossed. Sullivan's is the first town reached in the mining district. It is at the head of Pritchard creek, sixteen miles northeast of Eagle. The towns of Raven, Butte and Murrayville are located on Pritchard creek between Sullivan and Eagle. The altitude of Thompson Falls is greater than that of Eagle.

Good placer diggings have been found in Prospect creek, sixteen miles from here, on the route to the Coeur d'Alene district; some little excitement prevails there at present. Six miles of the creek is staked off for claims. Pieces of quartz have also been brought in from the Burns district, which show free gold; some of the rock has been sent to San Francisco to obtain an assay on the lead, which is six feet wide, free milling and easy of access. The same rich mineral belt that extends the length of Pritchard creek apparently continues on the same direction and runs some distance down Prospect creek and through the Blue Slide and Vermilion districts. The last two districts are northeast of the Clark's Fork river.

That the Coeur d'Alene mining district will prove to be as good if not better than expected there appears to be no doubt whatever in the minds of all those who have done any work on their claims. Some of them have begun to work their claims within the last two weeks. Lu Wyant informed me that Pete Grashaw and Richard are taking $30 per day out of their claim with rockers. Old miners are prospecting more closely for quartz and ore veins, now that it is known beyond a doubt that paying leads of this kind are in the district.

The Mother lode, which lies across Pritchard creek, a mile and a half above Murrayville, is a four foot vein of quartz, where the creek water runs over it, is spotted with gold as thick as spots on a turkey egg. The white quartz spotted with glittering gold washed by water makes a rich sight, which a number of persons who have seen it can testify to. The foot wall of the ledge is a nine foot vein of silver bearing ore. Wm. Pinal states that the lowest assay taken from the Mother lode is $750 in gold and ... silver. It has always been stated that the gold in the placer diggings was found only in sand between the ... crevices ... bedrock, but it has since been ascertained that the gravel in various places contains ... in paying quantities.

The town of Thompson's Falls is pleasantly located in the ... of a ... beautiful valley, with high hills ... On each side of the valley ... are rolling pine-clad mountains broken into various shapes by canyons and deep hollows. The town fills the whole space between the railroad track and the Clark's Fork river on the north bank just above east of the Thompson falls. Just above the town are the Thompson rapids, which continually make that far away ocean sound peculiar to mountain streams. In fact, the rapids, falls and wind swaying pines give forth their wild mountain music the whole year round.

PORTLAND AND NORTHERN PACIFIC RATES

A View from One of the Journals of the Interior Country.

Cheney Sentinel, March 28.

THE OREGONIAN has a sensible editorial on the subject of freight rates to Portland. We have never sympathized with the sentiment that Portland had no more rights than the Northern Pacific Railroad Company should respect than other points along the line. It is an old adage that "The Gods help those who help themselves," and in this case Portland has not only helped herself but has been an invaluable ally of the friends of the Northern Pacific. If we are not misinformed that city has aided in the construction of all roads that now penetrate the inland empire from the Pacific coast, and her citizens have put in large sums of money which has depreciated on their hands, and while eastern Oregon and Washington may have just cause to complain at any discrimination against this section, yet they have no cause to complain should the Northern Pacific railroad carry goods from the east to Portland at a nominal price or even for nothing. Portland can extricate herself from the Northern Pacific entirely in a short time by arranging a schedule with the Union Pacific by the Short Line, and get largely reduced rates via steamers from San Francisco. Again heavy freights such as iron, steel and goods manufactured of this material can be carried in bottoms from Liverpool or from Sweden and direct traffic can be maintained with all the ports of the world, while the inland towns can do none of these things without paying the freight rates from some seaboard point. While we would be pleased to see a sharp shipping city on our great inland sea which would give our own state or territory a name and a prestige abroad, yet we are not to overlook the fact that the two great waterways that sometime in the distant future must be utilized to empty the enormous crops of eastern Washington and northern Idaho into the lap of Portland or some other great city at the head of navigation on the Columbia river. This will produce a rivalry between Sound ports and Columbia ports. At present we must look at facts as they exist and not as they should be. When the Cascades are tunneled through and trains empty their freights on the Sound, then will Portland put forth her utmost strength to lock and dam the Columbia, so as to obtain cheaper rates than by rail. This competition or rivalry will all benefit eastern Washington, but at present we would probably be land locked but for the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company from Wallula to Portland, hence we have nothing to make on that city, and think some of our contemporaries are a little hasty in pouring out vials of wrath on that city. But that the settlers of eastern Washington should be treated liberally and fair the railroad company must understand, because they are the support of the road and every inch of territory developed by them goes to build up the carrying trade of the company; therefore it is to their best interests to foster and encourage immigrants who are yet poor and struggling for existence along their lines and not impoverish the people on whom they are to depend for commerce and trade.

The new tariff so much complained of shows a greater discrimination against Chicago, St. Paul and Mississippi river points than against points in eastern Washington, because the rates are just the same from New York or Philadelphia as from western cities. Hence a good merchant here in Cheney can buy his goods in New York and lay them down as cheaply as from Chicago or San Francisco and sell them as readily and cheaply as the same articles can be sold at wholesale in Portland, because the expenses are not so heavy here as there.

This brings us to a point to make a business suggestion. This city did control a million of business, and should the coming season largely augment that sum, how with the present rates, a merchant can locate in Cheney and have a skillful buyer in New York market, to take advantage of the fluctuations and wholesale fully a quarter of a million dollars worth of goods at a larger profit than can be realized in any large city. There are some articles of commerce that can be purchased as cheap in Portland or San Francisco, but these do not come from the east. At present Cheney has no such house as we mention and it is not probable that any of the merchants now doing business will ever avail themselves of this great advantage, but at some future time it will be done and the man who undertakes such an enterprise with money to back it will make all he will ever need. Then let the small dealers at other points vent their feelings upon Portland and the railroad while Cheney takes care that her business interests are no longer neglected.

Walla Walla Journal: While workmen were busy last week clearing up the grounds of Mountain View addition, they unearthed a kit of counterfeiting tools, including plaster of paris dies for coins of the denomination of 50 cents and $1. All indications, such as the remains of fires, etc., go to show that counterfeiting was carried on here at some past period. This story is corroborated by some suspicious circumstances related by F. F. Stone, whose residence adjoins this land.

This is to certify that I am well acquainted with a man fifty years of age, for many years a resident of this city, who has been at times extremely ill, but could not tell from what cause, unless it was worms. He told his attending physician his suspicions, but the physician at once ridiculed the idea, and refused to attend him any longer. His son then mentioned Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and asked him if he would take it; his reply was—"I must take something to get relief, or die."
They at once procured a bottle of Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and he took one dose. The result was he passed upwards of three quarts of worms, cut up in every form. He got well immediately, and is now enjoying excellent health; and, like the good Samaritan of old, is endeavoring to relieve his unfortunate neighbors. He makes it his business to hunt up and select all cases similar to his own that may be given over by regular physicians, and induces them to try Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge. So far he has induced more than twenty persons to take the Vermifuge, and in every case with the most happy results. He is well satisfied that Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, is far superior to any other known remedy, and that if more generally known would not fail to save many valuable lives. ## CATTLE BREEDING IN THE FUTURE.

Oregon is essentially a dairy state. That is, she is a state that should not only export more butter than she imports, but should also import only into her mining counties such as Coos, Jackson and Curry, inhabited by a class whose daily vocation is not linked to the production of domestic staples. Yet the solemn fact stares us in the face that these same mining counties are already turning out large quantities of dairy products and come nearer furnishing their own butter and cheese than many of the Willamette valley counties. California has about six months of green grass in each year, while Oregon has nearly eight; hence instead of bringing California butter to Portland we should be shipping Oregon butter to San Francisco by every steamer. Union and Baker counties are already great dairying counties and export butter and cheese to the Idaho mining towns, where they realize fair prices. And in these two counties, until about four years ago, it was the custom to breed for the shambles only and ignore the dairy altogether; but people have begun to find out that the condition of affairs to which we are fast settling down requires a more thrifty sort of management and must be prosecuted with a view to saving the milk from the cattle as a means of securing the interest on their cost. The vast cattle ranches about Goose Lake and Stein Mountain cannot afford to make butter or cheese, except for their own use, because they are isolated in location and cannot sell dairy products at a profit. But the man who keeps cows anywhere within thirty miles of a town of five hundred people, is guilty of injustice to himself and his family if he does not sell every pound of butter he can make after using what is needed at home.

In the eastern portion of this state the scarcity of water will always operate as a great drawback to all pursuits of this sort; and while the John Day, Grand Ronde and Powder river valleys are well watered and afford good facilities, for dairy pursuits, yet the great heat and intense cold at opposite seasons of the year cause scarcity of water and compel some breeders to look no farther than the sale of their cattle to the traveling drovers who are engaged in transferring beef cattle to the valleys of the Gallatin and the Yellowstone, where they are wintered, and then run into Chicago by rail in the following year. It is safe to say there is nearly 45 per cent. of the land in Wasco and Grant counties that cannot be utilized except in breeding for the block, while Umatilla has the largest area of grain-bearing soil, and is already a large exporter of beef and wool. The coast counties should, however, be the great dairy section of the state, and produce not only all the butter and cheese needed in Portland and Astoria, but a good share of the beef as well. The warm rains and humid climate of the coast region enable dairy farmers to get along with less than two months' winter feeding in each year, as the dense forests afford plenty of good browse in October, November and February. In all the remaining months, except December and January, the white clover affords the most abundant pasturage and nutritious food.

The desideratum, therefore, is a breed of cattle that will be available, both for the dairy and the block. The short-horns, upon which the wealth of Kentucky is based, are undeniably the best beef cattle for the great treeless plains east of the Cascade range, but their great size renders them unfit for the heavily timbered steeps of the coast range. They must go where food is abundant and timber is scarce. The cattle of the Channel islands, notably the Jerseys and Guernseys, are much better adapted to our coast section, but there is a speculative fever in them just at present. Several weeks ago, in New York, a Jersey bull, with two or three crosses of Coomassie, sold for $7250 at auction, and he was already 6 years old, which is about equal to $12,500 for an equally good animal of half that age. Cows of the same strain brought from $9000 to $12,000, and one cow of the Scituate blood brought $14,450. Of course, we must not lose sight of the homely adage that "great princes have great playthings," but at such figures as these, none but bankers and plumbers can afford to keep Jersey or Guernsey cattle. Certain it is that before Oregon farmers can afford to use Channel island cattle as the basis of a dairy farm or stock ranch, they will have to live long enough to see a vast decline in prices, for no country can long hope to prosper which depends upon wholly speculative prices, such as those we have just cited.

The general demand will be something nearer a happy medium than the great bulky carcass of the Durham or the tiny figure of the Jersey, which is so valuable for milk as to seem unprofitable for slaughter. The Guernseys are equally costly, and the Ayrshires are but little better. In this emergency let us suggest the red Devon as a more active and thrifty animal than the short-horn, and yet a larger animal than the Jersey or Ayrshire, and better adapted both to the yoke and the butcher's block. Thirty years ago there was a Devon fever in the northern states, but it did not cross the Ohio river; yet the prices paid, as in the case of the present Jersey craze, were wholly speculative, and kept a really valuable breed of cattle out of the hands of the only class of people who were able to prove and substantiate their real utility. People who found themselves unable to sell yearling calves for $1000 apiece, after having paid three times that amount for their sire and dam, began to grow disgusted and say there was "nothing in it." And the consequence was that a most meritorious breed of cattle met with undeserved censure right and left, when the real truth is that for certain classes of lands and climates they are second to none. They are better than the short-horns for milk, butter and cheese; they surpass the Jerseys, Alderneys Ayrshires, Guernseys and other island cattle for beef and as work oxen; and if there is any one breed that can justly claim superiority over them it is the Herefords, which have a value just as speculative as that of the Jerseys or Guernseys. For the coast range at the western slope of the Cascades, therefore, we believe that cattle bred from a Devon stock as a foundation, will be the most serviceable and afford the best returns in the long run. The old and slipshod style of farming—depending wholly upon one crop, and paying cash or barter for everything else—will soon be done away with; and the new order of things will be such that a barren cow, instead of being turned out to starve as a reward for the calves she has borne and the milk she has yielded, will be put into a comfortable stall and fattened for beef. And when that day has fairly dawned upon us, we will see as choice beef in the Portland markets from the coast farms as now comes from the bunch grass prairies across the Cascade range.

The shrewd settler, who hews out his destiny in the woods of Benton or Tillamook within the next ten years, will breed upward as to the quality of his stock, gelding his bull calves and raising them for work oxen in the logging camps, while he retains his heifers and breeds them to bulls of purer grades than themselves. He will put up his butter in a cellar at a low temperature, reserving every possible pound for sale at high prices at the opening of winter. His buttermilk he will use for fattening his hogs and on the hillside above his house he will have not only a good orchard of apples and plums, but an acre or two laid off in pease and vetches, as winter food for his hogs and cattle. He will keep a few sheep for his own table and have something to eat beside salt pork and parsnips the year round. He will, in a word, produce on his own grounds everything that will grow out of doors, and pay cash for nothing that may be obtained by a little hard work. And when that class of people get the whip hand in this state, the coastwise counties will be the richest in the whole expanse of Oregon.

If men can live on the summit of the Blue mountains, where the snow lies four months in the year, they can certainly stand it on the coast region where it does not lie for seventy days in any year. As the demand for lumber increases, the timber will be hewn away on the western slope of the coast range, and the shamrock will grow where the hemlock has fallen, thus increasing the area of wild pasturage to meet the natural increase of live stock; and the dairy farm and cattle ranch where [a] beef can be bought at all seasons, will be one and the same place.

WORKINGMEN'S HOMES.

An article on "Workingmen's Homes" in the April Harper's, shows that the efforts which have been made in New York and Brooklyn, as well as in London, to furnish decent homes to poor people at low rent, have contributed to the mutual benefit of the landlords and the tenants. In London there are now over sixty groups of buildings constructed upon this idea, which utilize over $10,000,000 capital, and house, in round numbers, more than 10,000 families, or 50,000 persons. The most extensive of these have been erected by the Peabody fund, in London, and the Improved Dwelling Association, of New York, which provide homes for the higher class of working people as near as possible to the shops or docks where they are chiefly employed. A somewhat different plan is pursued in London by Miss Octavia Hill, the results of which are still more encouraging. She takes the slums with their occupants and gradually improves them until the inmates are ready to seek better homes or to have the old rebuilt. One of the worst places in Marylebone was thus taken in hand fifteen years ago, a court inhabited by the lowest class, whose houses were "unutterably vile," and by slow degrees the wretched tenants were educated into making their quarters as decent as possible, and desiring better things, until at last the old buildings were pulled down and "St. Christopher's" building," a fine brick structure, now profitably houses as many happy people, who pay no more than they used to in the old slums.

The most extensive undertaking of this kind in this country is that of Mr. White of Brooklyn, who opened his first "home buildings" in February, 1877, an adjoining block in October of the same year, and the three "Tower buildings" on the next block during 1878 and 1879. The five aggregate 218 dwellings (1 of six 25 of five, 147 of four and 45 of three rooms), and 15 stores, and they house about 1000 people, who pay an average rent of $1 93 per week for four-room dwellings and $1 48 for three rooms, with a discount of 10 cents per week to those who pay four weeks' rent at a time in advance, and a second rebate of 10 per cent. to those who remain the full year from the first of May and so save the buildings the wear and tear of removals. Another feature of Mr. White's enterprise is the two blocks of dwelling houses known as "Warren place," consisting of thirty-four little brick houses of two and three stories on a plot of land with 112 feet frontage, running through 200 feet from Warren to Baltic streets. The two-story and basement houses are 11½ by 32 feet, have six rooms each, cost but $1100 apiece, exclusive of land, and rent for $15 per month. Mrs. Hill of London is making a clear 5 per cent. interest on the capital invested in her enterprise. The Peabody fund earns 3, the other London companies 5 per cent. Mr. White's home buildings net 8 per cent. after paying taxes, repairs and running expenses. The New York association is earning 7 per cent. on its capital of $300,000 from rentals of $1 75 per week for sets of two rooms, and $14 50 per month for sets of four rooms.

The only value of this statement to the people of Portland, perhaps, will be to show what may be done by enterprise and capital when a little public spirit is mixed with it. The time is coming, if it has not already arrived, when it will be for the general interest of all classes of white people in Portland to have the cost of living reduced. It is idle to talk about establishing manufacturing enterprises while the lowest rent of decent houses or apartments remains at $20 or $25 a month. Such high rents are not necessary. It is possible for tenements to be constructed here as cheaply as in the largest cities of the world, and the capitalist who should follow the example of Mr. White would have a profitable business and benefit a large number of people.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who has been making an extensive tour in the Red river valley, notices the bad effects upon the people of the excessive tax levied upon their products by the railroads. He reports the condition of the immigrants, of whom the greater number are Scandinavians, as miserable in the extreme. Three months in which to grow the single crop of spring wheat, which yields but thirteen to sixteen bushels per acre, and costs from 40 to 75 cents a bushel; floods on the bottom lands and drouth on the uplands; a limited market and a monopoly in transportation in the hands of the St. Paul and Manitoba railroad—these are the causes which have brought the poor Northmen to the verge of despair. Nor does the correspondent find any prospect of relief in the future, regarding the country as hopelessly incapable of sustaining a considerable population. "The extreme northwest," he declares, "whatever the most masterly manipulated advertising bureau may say to the contrary, is and always will remain the Siberia and Finland of our continent, swayed by an autocrat the most despotic that ever ruled a farmer's home."

We have taken no liberties with the composition of Mr. William Stokes, architect of the high school building, but have printed the same precisely as given under his hand. The public may form an estimate from this composition of the culture, skill and general competency of the architect whom the board of directors preferred over everyone else. It cannot but be regarded as eminently proper that this specimen of high school literature should go on the record as a contribution to the discussion of the question which has recently engaged attention here. Mr. Stokes convinces us. We must have that in our school buildings which will promote true culture and at the same time 'prompt proud thought and kindle high desire." See what the high school can do, when, to its work, is superadded the "architect's training." We have kept the original of Mr. Stokes' letter, which, doubtless, the board of directors will want for their archives.

Still another competitor with this country in the production and export of wheat has appeared. The United States consul at Buenos Ayres believes that the Argentine republic is to be one of the great grain producing countries of the world. He estimates the wheat crop of this year at about 19,500,000 bushels, more than half of which will be surplus for export, and adds that the surplus corn will amount to 5,000,000. The number of acres devoted to agriculture has more than doubled within the last six years, yet there are less than 8,000,000 acres under cultivation in the fourteen provinces, out of 800,000,000, the greater part of the remainder being used for grazing cattle and sheep.

The New York Sun thinks that the farmers of the west should be assisted to meet the competition of India, Australia and the Argentine Republic in supplying Europe with breadstuffs by the construction by the government of a system of national canals. It is the cost of transportation that is handicapping the American farmer, says this writer, and this must be reduced by the undertaking of internal water ways on a huge scale to enable the farmer to get his products to market cheaply.

In his latest study of the movement of prices the celebrated statistician, Mr. Giffen of London, found that the only important article of food that had not greatly decreased in price the last fifty years was meat. Wheat was one of those which had gone down in price the most, being lower now than forty or fifty years ago in England.

"EDMUNDS AND GOULD."

The Chicago Herald says that "if Mr. Edmunds should be nominated for president Mr. Jay Gould may be relied on for a pretty big slice for the campaign fund. Edmunds and Gould are warm personal friends. The other day Edmunds telegraphed Gould, asking if the latter would not stop at Nassau, N. P., in his yacht and get his (Edmunds') daughter and carry her over to Florida. Gould promptly replied that he was in a hurry and could not make the arrangement himself but if Miss Edmunds could wait a week or until he returned to New York, he would send the yacht back to Nassau and the young lady could go where she pleased in her. Happily, Mr. Edmunds was able to secure a loan of one from Mr. Chandler to go to Nassau after Miss Edmunds, and so the latter missed a delightful cruise in the hand-somest yacht afloat."

When we saw this first in a Washington letter to the New York World, it occurred to us that some newspaper would make it serve his purpose of objecting to Mr. Edmunds. If it is true that he asked this favor of Jay Gould, it should be considered in connection with his course as a senator, which has been very far from friendly to Jay Gould. He was the real author and most powerful supporter of the Thurman bill, to compel the Union and the Central Pacific railroad companies to pay their obligations to the government, which caused Gould and Huntington to oppose Judge Thurman's return to the senate. Mr. Edmunds was the most determined opponent of the confirmation of Stanley Matthews as justice of the supreme court, which Gould desired and which he requested Plumb of Kansas to vote for. Mr. Edmunds is the prime mover in the postal telegraph system, and is especially opposed to the purchase of the Western Union, which Gould is understood to desire to unload on the government. These and other instances in his public service do not look as if Mr. Edmunds would be at Jay Gould's command if he were elected president of the United States. We can think of a number of men that Gould would find more useful to himself in that office than Senator Edmunds, who has a temperament and a disposition which enable him to resist many of the influences which surround a man in that position. He could use Jay Gould's yacht without incurring any feeling of obligation to reward its owner by an act which would compromise his official or personal honor.

One of the most interesting things in the April number of the North American Review is an article by Julian Hawthorne on "Literature for Children." The writer enters a vigorous and in many respects a righteous plea for the preservation of the ideal literature for the little ones. He holds that the books prepared for them since Maria Edgeworth "foisted her prim and narrow moral code upon the commonplace adventures of a priggish little boy and his companions, are calculated to make little dwarfs and hobgoblins out of them, to destroy their radiant childhood and to stuff them with indigestible and incongruous knowledge." Whether one agrees or not with Mr. Hawthorne's arguments and conclusions, it is certain that in some particulars the rising generation is not an improvement upon its predecessors. There are few students of society who will not agree that it is marked by a curious irreverence, a concentrated selfishness, and too generally in cities at least, by what old fashioned people consider exceedingly bad manners.

Benjamin Gratz, who died in Philadelphia a few days ago, was the oldest graduate of the university of Pennsylvania, and the oldest member of the Philadelphia bar. His sister Rebecca was a special friend of Washington Irving, who regarded her as one of the most lovely women and perfect types of the ideal Jewess possible to find. On one of his visits to Sir Walter Scott he interested the great novelist in her character to such an extent that he took her for his model of Rebecca in "Ivanhoe." One of the first copies of the work issued was addressed to Miss Gratz, with the author's compliments, but it was not until Irving apprised her of the fact that she saw herself in the lovely character that has made "Ivanhoe" one of the favorite works of fiction among the Hebrews.

The Springfield Republican thinks that the work of a good many newspapers which are busy "whooping up" this or that man for the presidency is, in nearly every case, a mere trying to heat the iron by striking it. Except in the instances where the newspaper represents local pride in a candidate, it does not show any feeling among the political people who expect to finally adjust matters. It does show in a curious way, however, that the campaign is strangely at loose ends. Except that it has become clear that the democrats can not go very far toward free trade, there is hardly less uncertainty about either candidates or platforms to-day than there was a year ago.

Out of 1500 replies to editorial inquiry from Sacramento 759 favored Tilden and 513 Thurman. The secret of Thurman's popularity there is his attitude toward the Pacific railway monopoly, as revealed in the "Thurman bill." If Thurman could be nominated the Chicago Herald thinks he would be practically sure of the Pacific states.

New York papers are advocating a prohibitory law against the manufacture and sale of bogus butter as the only method of protecting the dairy interests of that state from the ruinous competition which the large production of several articles of imitation butter threatens.

Blaine and the Election.

Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.

Mr. Blaine, in replying to a newspaper correspondent who suggested that in his opinion he, the ex-secretary would be nominated, said: "That's important, if true, but it would be much more important if you could point to me some reason for asserting that I will be elected if nominated." The election is a very important feature of the case. Thousands of republicans who believe with Mr. Blaine that any candidate nominated by the republicans at Chicago will be elected, believe also that it would be harder to elect him than any other man prominently named in connection with the presidency.

Mid-day Musings.

Philadelphia Call.

Never kick a man when he is down. It is cowardly. Never kick a man when he is up. It is reckless.

When a hen gets on her nest for a short time she "lays," but when she retires for a couple of weeks she "sets." A hen is nothing if not ungrammatical.

Button shoes for gentlemen are becoming unpopular and the old style congress gaiters have been revived. A man don't have to jump up at night and run for the doctor more than once before he decides that button shoes won't suit.

AN OLD TIME NEWSPAPER.

WHAT THE MILWAUKIE "WESTERN STAR," APRIL 3, 1851, CONTAINED.

That City as a Seaport and Commercial Center—Discussion of Politics and Internal Improvement.

An interesting relic of pioneer journalism in this state has been furnished THE OREGONIAN by W. S. Failing. It is a copy of the Western Star, printed at Milwaukie, Clackamas county, Oregon territory, April 3, 1851, just thirty-three years ago to-day. The publishers were John Orvis Waterman and William D. Carter, both of whom are still living. Mr. Carter is connected with the office of Himes the Printer. Mr. Waterman passed through the city a few days ago on his way to Boise City to take a position on the Boise Democrat, published by Jud. Boyakin, formerly an apprentice in the office of Waterman & Carter, and printed on the same press from which was issued the Western Star.

Publication of the Star was commenced in November, 1850, about two weeks after the first paper was started here. The press and type was purchased by Lot Whitcomb, owner of the town site, who engaged Waterman and Carter to get out the paper. They worked at it till June, '51, without having received much compensation and came to the conclusion that they were entitled to own the office. On one fine June day an excursion was given by the steamer Lot Whitcomb to the Cascades, in which nearly all the citizens of Milwaukie participated. Mr. Carter started with the excursion, but landed here and chartered the little steamer Black Hawk and a barge and returned to Milwaukie. The plant of the Western Star was placed upon the barge and brought down to this city, and before night was set up and in running order in the same building with, and only divided by a partition from the office of THE OREGONIAN, [illegible] which it was the next competitor to enter the lists. It may be added here that it lasted much longer than many of the competitors which have started during the third of a century which has since elapsed.

When the excursionists returned from the Cascades on that June day, they found that their city was left newspaperless, and from that day may be dated the decline of Milwaukie.

The name of the paper on issuing here was changed to the Times. It continued to be published here till 1864 or thereabouts, when the office was removed to Umatilla. Among those here who learned the printing trade in the Times office were Frank Dell Eastabrook, now a compositor on THE OREGONIAN, Thomas Holmes, who died several years since, and Jud. Boyakin, who accompanied the office to Umatilla, and believing it to be the proper thing to "go east young man, go east," has gone on till he has at last pitched his tent and the press at Boise City, Idaho.

The number of the Star mentioned above is yellow and worn with handling. Its makeup will compare very favorably with country papers throughout the state at the present date. The leader is headed "Milwaukie—Its Improvements," and states "notwithstanding the general rush for the Klamath mines and the depression of monetary affairs it gives pleasure to notice the improvement and increase of trade in Milwaukie." And then the writer goes on to speak of the beautiful location of the city "with all the natural advantages that could be possibly desired; the fine bay fronting the city easy of access to the largest class of ships, and the two steamboats in constant communication at this point."

And then follows a synopsis of the improvements in progress, the Indian department buildings, the schooner building, [illegible] warehouse, stores, hotels, sawmills, the United States arsenal and armory, and winds up with the news that Milwaukie has just been created a port of entry, etc., etc., all of which goes to show that the art of booming a town was as well understood then as now. To the credit of the editors of the Star, however, be it said that they never claimed Milwaukie as the great terminal city, which would wipe out of existence every other city in the territory.

The nomination of Dr. McLaughlin for mayor of Oregon City is mentioned. A lecture on temperance by "Bro. Dryer of THE OREGONIAN" is noticed. A kick is made about the removal of the United States troops from Oregon, and our "indefatigable delegate" (Thurston) receives a lashing therefor.

A row is raised in regard to the territorial printing, and "Asahel Bush, the Statesman editor," is gone after in a style equal to that which distinguishes the papers of these later days. The latest news from congress is of the 18th of December, 1850, almost four months old, and gives the vindication of General Lane, and includes a letter by Daniel Webster. The local news is as might be expected, unimportant, but a column is devoted to "wit and humor," and an article is devoted to the printer, who it is said has "a hard life and is poorly paid," just above which is a piece of poetry, entitled, "Pay the Printer."

The advertising patronage of the Star appears to have been quite liberal. Bids for carrying the mail over a large number of routes are advertised for by Daniel H. Lownsdale. The greater number of proposals call for mails from Portland once a week. S. Kimball informs the public that he has a shipyard at Milwaukie, and is prepared to build ships, steamers, launches, yawls, etc. Gold diggers are informed that they can be supplied with any quantity of flour from Nesmith's mills on the Rickreal, Polk county. Among the Portland advertisers are John M. Brock & Co., dealers in dry goods, groceries, etc.; [illegible] & Dolan, dealers in assorted merchandise, and the card of E. Hamilton, lawyer. The paper contains many other things of interest, to old settlers especially, which want of space renders it impossible to mention.

NO MILLINERY OPENING.

Mrs. Hanover, the popular milliner, corner Third and Washington, announces to the ladies of Portland and vicinity she will make no special display of millinery this spring, and gives her reason—she has no time, being pressed with numerous orders. By past experience it was only a detriment to her business. This lady has large experience in the east and elsewhere, commencing here three years ago almost a stranger, and borrowing the small sum of $200, she began business at her present location. Her sales last year amounted to $17,000. This is no idle boast. During the last ten months she expended $12,000 in Portland, giving one leading wholesale house $10,000, besides her other importations. Since entering business it was all up hill with her until now. She had to contend against large sales of millinery at half cost, the owners failing or going out of business, while she has paid dollar for dollar. Her courteous and honorable dealings has won for her many friends, a first-class business and unlimited credit in Portland, San Francisco and New York. This is a good record and speaks well for the lady, who justly deserves the respect and patronage of the ladies of Portland. With the present elegant stock free from all incumbrances, she respectfully invites the ladies of Portland and vicinity to come and examine her goods before purchasing elsewhere, and promises to give special inducements to all who favor her with a call.

S. P. Wilson of the M. E. church assisted by Rev. Ledru Royal, officiating. Members of the family and intimate friends only were permitted the pleasure of witnessing the ceremony. Hearty congratulations, a sumptuous dinner, and the presentation of a number of useful and ornamental articles rounded off the affair in as happy a manner as could be desired. The happy pair took the evening train for Salem, where they will in future reside, accompanied by well-wishes that will make them through life, if realized.

THE CITY DREDGE.

Report of Its Work at Swan Island During Last Month—Ample Depth Obtained.

At the city council meeting last night Captain Hoyt, superintendent of the city dredge boat, submitted the following report:

To the Honorable, the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Portland—Gentlemen: I have the honor to report the following work of the city dredger for the month ending Monday, March 31, 1884:

Monday, March 3d, hauled dredger from the Oregon Improvement Company's wharf, where she had been laid up on account of high water, to a position in the channel, at a point left off by the former superintendent, Captain Pease, to continue the same work commenced by him, of operating [illegible] from the upper or south end of the Swan Island channel to the deeper water above, with the object of drawing the full strength and force of the current in this direction, which will very materially assist in keeping the already dredged channel across the bar open. This is the plan proposed by Captain Powell, and some work already done by the government dredge.

The work has continued each working day during the month with fair success; one and one-half days have been lost by a defective pinion, which was taken out, replaced and repaired with very little loss of time; also delays of a few hours one or [illegible] each day from [illegible] with barges, moving anchors, etc., but no serious breaks or accidents to machinery [illegible].

The length of the cut made to March 31 is 1150 feet; 175 feet wide and to a uniform depth of 20 feet at low water. The total number of yards of earth removed is 12,290, an average of 532 yards per day. Number of scows loaded 1,250, an average of ten scow loads per day.

It has been the custom heretofore, I am informed, to calculate the number of yards of earth removed, by calling each scow load 120 yards. On giving the scows a very careful measurement, I find them only carrying [illegible] yards when carefully and liberally loaded, and it is not possible to so load them at all times without great loss of time and waste of [illegible]. It was made by calculations each day from carefully measuring the cut made and averaging the whole amount to the scows loaded, which, I think, is nearer the true work accomplished, although it makes a much less showing of yards removed.

Two complaints have been made that the scows have dumped their loads in a place where the material would again wash into the channel. Anticipating trouble of this kind, I consulted with Capt. Powell, who kindly described the limits of the dumping ground early and before commencing work, and each day I have given the matter my personal inspection to be certain that no mistake shall be made.

I hope to finish this job in one or two more days, and shall then remove to the lower end of the channel and spend what time may be left before the summer high water stops the work, in widening and straightening the entrance to the channel. Respectfully submitted,

RICHARD HOYT, Superintendent.

THE HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

MR. EDITOR:

Dear Sir—Now that the controversy over the erection of the high school building has subsided, perhaps a few words on some of the points in the issue, and the rumor of extravagancy in the employment of expensive materials, used in the construction and ornamentation of the fine building, may not be out of place, at the present time.

I have no desire to shift the responsibility of the actual cost of the building, over the estimated cost, on the shoulders of the honorable board of directors.

No doubt that they based their calculations on the estimated cost of the building. That estimate were made on the best information at hand. There are circumstances connected with this building as with others of a similar nature, of which the public has but little idea. It is only an architect, or a builder who can realize the difficulty of estimating the cost of a building from an unmatured set of drawings, and it is just as difficult for an architect to see into the earth and say what it will cost to make a proper foundation, or control the market price of materials, as it is for any one else to do so.

I have no doubt that the building can be completed for the sum stated in the report of the directors, but who shall say what it will cost in a year hence or some time in the future, should that time ever come to finish the building.

It may be at a much greater cost, for the present low price of labor and material are not likely to remain fixed. Then who will be to blame for the unsatisfactory result?

In regard to the propriety of building a brick building, as compared with a wooden one, it requires but little mental effort to see the advantage in favor of a brick. At the end of about ten years, a brick building will become the cheapest, as the insurance and the attrition of the building will be much less.

A wooden building, at best, is little else than an apology for a building, and continually grows into increased expense with age, until it gives place to one of more durable materials, and the time is not far distant when it will be looked upon as a folly to build a public building of wood.

The buildings of this city are not exempt from the same laws, vicissitudes and mutation that the buildings in the eastern states, has gone through, and when the good people of this city experience the terrible ordeal of fire, which may come sooner or later, will then, and then only, realize the danger that hangs over the children, who attend fire traps, like that of the central block.

In regard to the reported extravagant expenditure of $19,000 worth of galvanized iron, used in the decorative, and other parts of the building, I am much surprised myself at the enormous sum. But I am at a loss, to see how an architect can tell the amount of galvanized iron, to be used, without seeing the plans, specification, and detail drawings, is quite beyond my own prehension, and looks to me like the wild dreams of a distempered imagination and ought to be catalogued with the Hallucinations on the street corners.

In designing the exterior of the building, arranging the form of the skylines, general disposition of the leading features, properly balancing the light and shades, in designing the constructive ornamentation, in accenting the work, and giving expression and meaning to the whole, has been accomplished with as little expenditure of galvanized iron, as is consistent with the permanency of the building. I freely admit that the instruction from the board, and frequent admonitions from the superintendent of schools to keep down the cost has had its proper effect, which time, and only time, will verify the fact.

No apology is needed for any effort, however feeble to improve the architecture of this city. It is a truthful observation, that buildings are books that every body unconsciously reads, and if they are a libel on the laws of architecture, they will surely vitiate in time the taste of those who become familiarized to their deformity.

An eminent writer once said that if a man's life were duty, his thoughts would be duty. Then may it not be declared with more sense or propriety that those who are obliged to look day after day at ungrateful, mean and unsubstantial objects, lose by degrees their sense of the beautiful and harmonious, and set forth in their minds the meanness of their surroundings, then where are we to look for the beautiful in architecture but in the temple of education.

From the very nature of an architect's training unfits him to look at matters and things connected with building, in the same light of the utilitarian as we read—

"The churl who holds it heresy to think,
Who loves no music, but the dollars' clink,
Who laughs to scorn, the wisdom of the schools,
And deems the first, of poets the first of fools,
Who never knew, what good from science grew,
Save the grand fact, that one, and one, makes two,
And marvels, that a student over, a book should pore,
Save to turn those two into four;
And looking up where Catskill forehead greets the sky,
Grieves that such, a mine unknown, should lie,
And gazing where Niagara's torrents thrill,
Exclaims 'O, monstrous stream, to turn a mill!'"

WM. STOKES.

THE LADIES' RELIEF SOCIETY.

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THIS ORGANIZATION.

Election of Officers and Committees—Reports of the Secretary and Treasurer—Healthy State of Finances.

Tuesday afternoon the Ladies' Relief society held its seventeenth annual meeting in the vestry of the Presbyterian church, the president, Mrs. M. Holbrook, in the chair. Mrs. Holbrook presented a report, principally devoted to the subject of a new building. It will be published in a day or two.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Mrs. T. B. Merry presented the following annual report:

To the Officers and Members of the Ladies' Relief Society of the City of Portland, Oregon: Agreeably to the duties imposed upon me by the election of my predecessor in office, it devolves upon me to submit to you the following report of the condition of the society for the fiscal year ending with the 31st day of March, 1884:

At the beginning of the current year the society had a total membership of 80. During the year 11 new members have been admitted. I have received and I has [illegible] the [illegible] membership 1,[illegible]. During the year the society has held twelve regular and three special meetings, with an average attendance of [illegible].

The reports of ward committees show that [illegible] families have been assisted by the society in various ways during the year. There have been received in the Home during the year [illegible] children. At present the number of inmates is 30, 15 having been dismissed and homes found for [illegible].

The present date [illegible] another year in the steadfast and efficient matronship of Mrs. Young, whose motherly tenderness [illegible] with [illegible] has so largely contributed to the success of this institution. The past winter has been one of unusual severity as regards the diseases of children, yet by her unabated vigilance and close attention to all the details of the Home there has been no case of the precious little lives committed to our care. Her untiring and constant attention to the grave trusts devolving upon her entitle her to the gratitude and esteem of every well wisher of the society.

To the Doctors [illegible] the Home is under great and manifold obligations for the hearty manner in which they have given both medicines and medical attendance to every little sufferer at all times, and at the very first warning of danger. In returning them the sincere thanks of our members, I trust, without a dissenting vote, and I trust, it is with gratitude for their skill and gentleness in the sick room, and for the high professional pride that has prompted them to render such constant service without the slightest approach to compensation directly or indirectly.

It must be evident to the most superficial observer, that the present accommodations of the Home are wholly inadequate to the numerous demands made upon the society daily for shelter and maintenance, both in behalf of children whose parents are able to pay for their keeping and those whose parents are either dead or hopelessly destitute. The dormitories are already crowded beyond a limit compatible with a sound sanitary condition, and more room must be had before long. To increase the present Home by addition of another wing would afford but temporary relief in this respect, while it would cover up a large portion of the children's playground, that indispensable auxiliary to good health. It is therefore a question of removal, but when and whither, is for the vote of the society to determine, so far as they shall be aided by a generous and charitable public.

As the public are already aware, the society is in possession of a block of land in South Portland, donated to the society by Henry Villard, Esq., in his prosperous days. The society has had plans drawn for a large building, which can be erected and occupied in, allowing the basement and first floor to be finished for immediate use, leaving the upper stories to be completed at a time when funds shall be more abundant and when the urgent necessities surrounding this association shall demand the increase of room for the unfortunates of both sexes committed to its fostering care.

It is useless to blind our eyes to the fact that the demands upon this society are daily increasing rather than diminishing; that children born of trespassing parents are daily being brought to us for shelter, and these should not be turned away on account of poverty on the one hand or of discretion on the other. They must be fed and clothed, they must be taught right from wrong, they must be sent to school when old enough, and, when the proper time comes, be sent to such homes as may be found for them and taught the value of useful labor. In this work of saving little feet from going astray, we ask the help of the charitable and the co-operation of all who desire the amelioration of society in our state. For it is more of a state question than most people are aware. The metropolis, from its position between converging lines of railroad and river navigation, catches all the poverty as well as all the wealth of the state, and while crime naturally gravitates hither, so does suffering, misfortune and undeserved destitution. To aid a charity of this sort, that is bossed by no creed and governed by no sectarian influence, appeals alike to the humanity and interest of every citizen, or believer. Whatever is given is thankfully received in the name of the One who said "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not."

The public has shown its appreciation of our labor in the past as it has come forward with commendable alacrity whenever called upon to aid us. Now we feel the need of another appeal, calling forth a stronger response, for our labors are daily on the increase and our resources should be augmented to meet them. Everything that can be given should be given, and it will be gratefully held in remembrance.

For the Thanksgiving donation last November the society was profoundly thankful, although owing to an ill-arranged delivery system, some of the goods were not called for, much to the regret of the donors and the inconvenience of the society. Next Thanksgiving we hope to have a more thorough system of delivery, and can assure the patrons of the Home that nothing will go amiss.

What we most desire at present is increased visitations to our Home by the charitable and well-disposed of our citizens. We are confident that, could people see its good works for themselves they would feel a deeper and more lasting interest in its welfare and contribute more voluntarily to its support. No public charity can stand more thoroughly on its own merits. But to be fully appreciated its workings should be seen and impartially judged.

MULTNOMAH COUNTY DEMOCRATS.

Primaries to be Held Next Saturday—The County Convention, Friday, April 11.

Pursuant to call, the members of the county democratic central committee met last night at the law office of Effinger & Bourne. In the absence of the chairman, D. H. Murphy, the meeting was called to order by the secretary, H. P. McIntire of East Portland, who stated that the object was to make an apportionment for each precinct of delegates to a county convention, which will elect delegates to the state convention which meets at The Dalles April 17.

There being no delegate from Western precinct, E. J. Jeffery was chosen to represent the precinct, and he was also elected chairman of the meeting.

After some discussion the basis of representation was fixed at one delegate for every forty votes cast for Joe. S. Smith for governor in 1882 and one for every fraction of twenty or over.

The apportionment is as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Couch | 9 | East Portland | 4 |
| North Portland | [illegible] | Northeast Portland | 3 |
| South Portland | [illegible] | Grant | [illegible] |
| Willamette | [illegible] | Multnomah | [illegible] |
| Mount Tabor | [illegible] | Sandy | [illegible] |
| Rooster Rock | 1 | St. Johns | 1 |
| Sauvie's Island | 1 | Powell Valley | 1 |
| Columbia | [illegible] | Albina | 2 |
| Western | 8 | | |
| Madison | 6 | Total | 63 |
| Morrison | 8 | | |

It was decided that the primaries should be held on Saturday, April 5, and to hold the same in the country precincts between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock P. M. and in the city between 6 and 8 P. M. at the usual polling places.

It was further decided that the delegates will meet at the court house at 11 A. M., Friday, April 11, to elect delegates to the democratic state convention.

Marked Changes.

Richard Ellis, late of the Palace hotel, San Francisco, is now steward at the Esmond, where the waiters appear in full dress. The dinners are given table d'hote, and popular prices prevail. The house is now conducted on the European plan, and Mr. Bresser, the proprietor, is all attention to the wants of patrons.

Montana.

Billings is to have a post of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Beaverhead county reduced its indebtedness $6,552 17 during the year which ended March 1.

An old mountaineer who claims to be familiar with the [illegible] of the west predicts that Cooke City, Clark's Fork district, will have 2,500 inhabitants by the 1st of August.

During February 13.6 tons of ore was brought down from Iron mountain and 200 tons of iron ore was received at the smelter from Soap gulch. In the same month seventeen car loads of bullion went to Melrose for shipment east.

The Billings and Livingston boards of trade have passed resolutions deprecating any congressional action looking to the forfeiture of the Northern Pacific land grant, and representing that such action would result disastrously to the country along the line of that railway.

Two bridges are to be built across the Yellowstone at Livingston—one from the north side of the river to the island, and the other from the island to the south bank of the stream. The object is to give the people of Livingston a direct route to the Bear and Emigrant Gulch mines.

The reports from the cattle ranges in the county are to the effect that considerable numbers of horned stock have succumbed to the rigors of the February storms, and that many more are poor and likely to die if another cold spell is experienced. Many stockmen are feeding their herds in dale, and are hopeful that by so doing they will be able to pull through without further serious loss.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

A Large Amount of Routine Business Occupies the Evening.

EXTENSIVE STREET IMPROVEMENTS PROPOSED

Two Policemen Confirmed—The Police Judge Deprived of his Clerk—Why Detective Hudson Left the City.

A regular meeting of the city council was held last evening and was called to order by Mayor Chapman. All the councilmen were present. The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved. The regular order of business was followed without interruption throughout the entire session.

PETITIONS, ETC.

From the Portland Savings bank, asking that the taxes paid upon mortgages which have been canceled, be returned; referred to the committee on ways and means.

From Bays and Jeffery, asking that some action be taken to enable them to be paid for street work which they have done; same reference.

Policeman H. M. Hudson presented a petition asking that the sum of $31 deducted from his wages for eleven days' absence from the city during the month of February, 1884, be paid him. "Other members of the force," says Mr. Hudson, "have been absent from the city, and I ask only the same treatment. During my absence I was hunting for some trace of the $18,000 stolen from the Northern Pacific Express Company." Gerdes said the Northern Pacific Express Company was to pay Mr. Hudson, but had not done so, and therefore he would move that the prayer of the petitioner be granted. This was accordingly done.

John Stephenson asked the council for a license to sell liquor at 187 First street for one month; referred to the committee on ways and means.

Henry J. Corbett asked the return of $33 paid for taxes upon lots 3, 4, 5 and 6 in block 224, on which lots no improvements exist; referred to the committee on ways and means.

John A. Child and other occupants of the business blocks on the south side of Morrison street, between Second and Fourth, petition the council "to do something decided and compel contractors to put down and maintain a clear and efficient sidewalk at the corner of Third and Morrison streets, as under the existing state of things it is a public nuisance and a very great detriment to our business." Referred to the committee on streets and public property, with power to act.

From Therkelson and McKay, asking permission to build a temporary sidewalk on their property; referred to committee on streets and public property.

From P. Lowengart, asking that certain taxes be returned; referred to the committee on ways and means.

From Clara Hamilton, also asking that certain indebtedness on city property be allowed her and taxes refunded; referred to the same committee.

From Jeremiah O'Driscoll, asking that the assessment on his property be canceled on account of his indebtedness; referred to the committee on ways and means.

From the trustees of St. Vincent's hospital, remonstrating against the proposed improvement of T street; referred to the committee on streets and public property.

From Milton Smith and others, asking the further improvement of Hood street; granted.

From two-thirds of the property-owners along the streets, asking the further improvement of Multnomah and Grover streets; petition granted.

From E. J. Wood, stating that he is unable to balance the books of ex-Chief of Police Lappeus without access to the books of the police judge, and that without such access he could not continue his investigation.

Honeyman moved to indefinitely postpone.

Adams said he thought the man was employed to write up the records, and not to investigate Lappeus. He thought the council were for that purpose.

The motion of Honeyman was amended by referring the matter to a special committee consisting of Messrs. Chittenden and Scoggin.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The committee on streets and public property, upon the matter of damages to be awarded to James Frainey for a spring which will be filled up by the opening of Jefferson street west of Twelfth, report that it be referred to the committee on judiciary and the city attorney; adopted.

The same committee, upon the matter of the petition of property owners for the establishment of the grade of Jefferson street, reported that the petition be placed on file, as the council had already given notice in accordance therewith; adopted.

The same committee recommended the passage of the ordinance providing for the construction of a sewer on Clay street at the expense of the property benefited, referred back to the committee.

The same committee recommended that the ordinance providing for the construction of a sewer on G street be so amended as to extend the sewer to the west side of North Twenty-first street; adopted.

In the matter of the remonstrance of H. A. Hogue and S. A. Walter, against the extension of the Mill street sewer from Ninth to Tenth street, the same committee recommended that further consideration be indefinitely postponed; adopted.

The same postponement was recommended for the petition of H. C. Smithson, who asks that taxes for improvement of B street in 1881, and which he then paid under protest, be returned to him; adopted.

The committee also recommended that the protest of the Northern Pacific Terminal Company of Oregon, against the improvement of North Seventh street, be referred to the committee on judiciary and the city attorney; adopted.

The petition of the Portland Lumbering and Manufacturing Company and others, for the opening of a street to connect with the macadam road, was recommended to be indefinitely postponed; adopted.

In the matter of the proposed improvement of Grant street, the committee found that more than two-thirds of the owners of adjacent property have remonstrated against, it was recommended that further action in the premises be discontinued; adopted.

The same committee recommended the indefinite postponement of further consideration upon the petition of James Wilson to readjust the assessment on the Mill street sewer; adopted.

The committee on health and police recommended the appointment of G. C. Morgan and James R. Wilkinson as regular policemen. On motion the appointments were confirmed unanimously.

The same committee recommended the payment of four days' back salary to ex-policeman Higgins; adopted.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

From the auditor and clerk, reporting the payment of the city's note for $20,000, that had been held by Ladd & Tilton.

From Richard Hoyt, superintendent of dredger, reporting work done last month; adopted.

From John Holman, reporting work of street cleaning department, and stating that he had sold the scrapings to different parties at good prices. Adopted.

From the chief of police, reporting that C. M. Rohr, who bid in certain property sold for street assessment, refused to fulfill contract thus made; instructions were given to readvertise the property for sale.

Western Oregon.

Monday night Howard & Millican's slaughter house, near Salem, was destroyed by fire. The loss was about $600. No insurance. The building belonged to the Thomas Cross estate. The loss sustained by Howard & Millican consisted of about 1500 pounds of tallow, 70 hides, three head of cattle, five sheep, two calves, etc. The fire probably originated from a defective flue, or tramps might have been careless with fire.

Last week three young men of Harrisburg, Linn county—Ed Henden and two Morris boys—went hunting in the mountains and becoming separated, when it became time to return home, the Morris boys were unable to find their companion. They hunted two days for him, but got no trace of him, and had to return home without him. The effort to find him was continued, but at last accounts nothing had been heard of the lost man.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY, April 2.

A very quiet day ruled along the street. The delay of mails held back orders, and the city trade is light.

During March rail shipments eastward included 60,123 lbs hops, 60,291 lbs wool, 4754 lbs sheepskins, 1580 lbs furs, 8710 lbs dry hides, 713 lbs other skins, 6 bf 1 bbl 650 cs salmon.

Overland receipts include 21 cs molasses, 1 case raisins, 150 bxs candles, 230 bxs tin.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS.—Past twenty-four hours: 3612 ctls wheat, 706 bbls flour, 144 ctls oats, 6 sks potatoes, 5011bs wool, 293 lbs hides, 85 cs eggs, 16 bxs fruit, 6 pkgs butter, 26 bls hay. Also 120 bbls flour, 101 sks potatoes, 7410 lbs hides from the eastern section.

The month of March passed without the clearance of any grain laden vessel. Last year for the same month six vessels cleared with 180,365 ctls wheat, 68,727 bbls flour and 2000 cs salmon for Great Britain. One vessel cleared with lumber for Valparaiso. Deep sea arrivals the past month were one vessel with coal, three with assorted cargoes from England, and one from Hong Kong with cargo. The only departure was the Helicon in ballast for Puget sound. The steamer Idaho came in with a small Alaskan freight and coal from Departure bay. Coastwise a good business was done, while rail receipts were large.

Exports by rail to Puget sound and British Columbia ports during March were: 6900½ bbls flour, 2678 sks wheat, 88 sks potatoes, 555 sks oats, 2105 sks bran, 703 sks chop, 117 sks seed, 300 sks salt, 227 mats rice, 25 sks barley, 254 sks Graham flour, 46 hf bbls 99 bbls meal, 151 bxs fruit, 61 bxs dried fruit, 471 cs lard, 56 sks hams, 114 cs eggs, 257 tubs butter, 110 bbls cement, 202 sks bacon, 2105 cs coal oil.

FREIGHTS.—The situation continues lifeless with shippers not inclined to do anything. Iron is nominally quoted 42s 6d for orders, but this is above shippers' views.

WHEAT—The foreign markets are still further depressed and quoted lower for off coast. Local markets inactive, with holders not disposed to let go at present offers. Receipts are dwindling again.

FLOUR—The local markets for standards is steady and unchanged. For shipping the market is quite unsatisfactory.

OATS—Continued steadiness is manifest with most holders demanding 50 cents.

BUTTER—California roll selling at 22@25c. Less eastern is being received and the disposition is to decrease all stocks.

EGGS—Not firm at 18@20c. Receipts fully up to requirements.

RICE—Island advanced to $6@6 25 and firm.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Idaho discharged coal at the foot of Yamhill street to-day.

The River Indus is again receiving flour.

Repairs to the Charles Cotesworth are well along, as also the S. R. Mead.

The Starbuck received new spars, topmasts and jibboom while in port.

R. K. Baker arrives to-night to succeed F. B. Perkins in the Mount Washington. The latter soon leaves to take command of the Henry Villard, a deserved promotion. During his long stay here he has made many new friends who wish him all manner of good luck. The masters who have lately been almost a fixture here are leaving one by one. But two of the class of '83 remain.

The Br bk Ulinck, Liverpool Feb. 2 for Brisbane, put back thirteen days later with rudder head twisted.

The State of California sails from San Francisco Friday and the Oregon sails hence the same night.

The Idaho brought from Alaska 10 hf 4 bbls herring; from Victoria 400 cs oil; from Nanaimo about 400 tons coal.

The old steamer Senator, recently sold and altered to barkentine rig, evidently does not take kindly to the change. Last Wednesday she was towed out of San Francisco bay and for two days made every attempt to proceed. On Friday signals were hoisted for tugs who towed her inside. The wind had played sad havoc with some of her sails and two of her seamen were disabled. Under the circumstances her captain thought it better to return to port so as to be able to start off under more favorable auspices. Among shipping men there is a diversity of opinion as to whether the Senator's chances for ever reaching her destination are good. Those in a position to know claim that she is sound and amply fitted for a long voyage, while others say just the reverse is the case.

The sch Challenger sailed from San Francisco last Friday for this river.

CANCER.

The experience in the treatment of Cancer with Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) would seem to warrant us in saying that it will cure this much dreaded scourge. Persons so afflicted are invited to correspond with us.

I believe Swift's Specific has saved my life. I had virtually lost use of the upper part of my body and my arms from the poisonous effects of a large cancer on my neck, from which I had suffered for 20 years. S. S. S. has relieved me of all soreness, and the poison is being forced out of my system. I will soon be well.

W. R. ROBISON, Davisboro, Ga.

Two months ago my attention was called to the case of a woman afflicted with a cancer on her shoulder at least 5 inches in circumference, angry, painful and giving the patient no rest day or night, for 6 months. I obtained a supply of Swift's Specific for her. She has taken 6 bottles, and the ulcer is entirely healed up, only a very small scab remaining, and her health is better than for 5 years past; seems to be perfectly cured.

REV. JESSE H. CAMPBELL, Columbus, Ga.

I have seen remarkable results from use of Swift's Specific on a cancer. A young man near here has been afflicted 5 years with the most angry looking eating cancer I ever saw, and was nearly dead. The first bottle made a wonderful change, and after 5 bottles were taken, he is nearly or quite well. It is truly wonderful.

M. F. CRUMLEY, M. D., Oglethorpe, Ga.

UNDER LIP AND INSIDE OF CHEEK EATEN AWAY BY CANCER.

My father had an eating cancer for several years, which had eaten away his under lip and the inside of his cheek down to the bottom of his gums. We got some of Swift's Specific and gave him, and the effect has been wonderful, a most miraculous. The sores are all healed and he is perfectly well. Every one here said it was only a question of time about his death, and his cure has created the greatest excitement in this part of the country. I hope you will publish about my father's cure, and send me some circulars to give to my friends and the afflicted.
